

1 in 10 people don't bother washing their hands after using a public toilet

10,000,000

The number of bacteria that a typical office worker comes into contact with every day

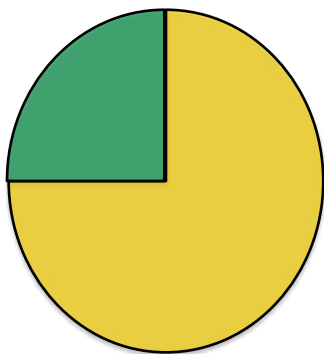

Hand washing properly can reduce the risk of Diarrhoea by a massive

47%

A study of 6,080 school children showed that those who used classroom-dispensed hand sanitizers at specific times during the day, in addition to normal hand cleaning habits, experienced 20% fewer absences due to illness

The number of germs on your fingertips doubles after you use the toilet

Government statistics indicate that at least 25% of food poisoning illnesses are due to improper hand washing

